Data sheet

WOODFIX

Since structurally anchored attachment points / devices are no longer subject to the PPS Directive, they may no longer be CE marked. In Germany the building inspectorate approval is required for such products. In Europe different national regulations apply to these products, under certain circumstances a specific approval is required.
The anchor point is to be used for roofs with a maximum load of 11kN or 2 people simultaneously. The equipment is only allowed for the intended use and under the described Terms of Application.
The use of anchor points for lifting loads is strictly forbidden.
